

Astronauts Hold Moon Landing Rehearsal

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Today was final rehearsal for man's last planned visit to the moon, a personal challenge for three Americans who have trained together nearly two years.

It was a familiar task for the men of Apollo 17, Eugene A. Cernan, Ronald E. Evans and Harrison H. Schmitt—donning space suits, activating switches and awakening the lunar lander named Challenger.

But this time there's a key difference. The moon, soaring in black space just ahead, is only one day away.

The men of Apollo 17 were rested, ready and on target for their lunar adventure. They perform the real thing Monday when Challenger sets down on the moon for an exploration science hopes will fill missing gaps about that world's evolution.

The astronauts are to move into lunar orbit on Sunday.

In the rehearsal Cernan and Schmitt, who are to be the 11th and 12th Americans to visit the moon, float through a tunnel connecting the command ship, America, with the smaller lunar module. Then they close the hatch connecting the two craft, sealing themselves from the command ship to test oxygen and other systems.

Evans remains aboard America, just as he will when his crewmates land on the moon.

Cernan, the 38-year-old commander of the final Apollo, and Schmitt, a Harvard-trained geologist and the first U.S. scientist in space, boarded Challenger for the first time Friday and found it in good shape.

"It looks clean," Schmitt told Mission Control during the two-hour inspection. "Everything is fine looking. Looks like there's some life in the old bird."

The astronauts detected only one small problem—one of 12 latches sealing Challenger and America together failed to completely engage. Evans inspected the latch, but on orders from the ground, did not engage it. Mission Control said the failure causes no serious concern since only nine of the latches need to engage for a secure linkup.

During the inspection Friday, Cernan and Schmitt loaded Challenger with the film magazines, tools and other equipment they will need on the moon's surface. They also checked the moon lander's switches and instruments and told Mission Control all were operating properly.

While his crewmates worked in Challenger, Evans conducted an experiment in the behavior of fluids in weightlessness. He heated a container of liquid which takes on a color when hot. The changes in the liquid are photographed and scientists will later study the pictures to learn about heat convection in space.

"There are a lot of big bubbles boiling up," said Evans as he watched the liquid heat. "It's a pretty picture."

Scientists are interested in learning how heat and liquids behave in space for potential application in other space experiments or in manufacturing processes.

Death Toll 43 In Jet Accident

CHICAGO (AP) — A passenger jet carrying 61 persons was winging its way through sleet and snow to a landing at Midway Airport when it plummeted down in a neighborhood of idyllic bungalows on the city's Southwest side, killing most of those aboard.

Among the 43 known victims was U.S. Rep. George W. Collins, D-Ill., while Michelle Clark, a CBS television news correspondent, was among the bodies tentatively identified at a morgue Friday night.

The survivors who were aboard the United Air Lines Boeing 737 jet were admitted to a hospital for treatment.

It was not immediately determined if any residents of the neighborhood were killed when the two-engine plane skimmed over the roof of one home Friday and sliced through five other houses about a half-mile from the airport.

The tail section extended from one house and the shattered nose rammed through a home and came to rest in an alley.

At least 20 persons resided in the section of homes, but many of the wives and husbands were either working or en route to schools to pick up the children when the crash occurred.

Marvin Anderson, a survivor treated and released from Holy Cross Hospital, said he sensed something was wrong when the pilot revved the engines in what Anderson thought was a "hopeless effort to abort the landing."

"Only about five seconds after the engines were revved the plane went into a stall, the nose of the plane went up and the tail went down ... then the tail hit a building and we crashed," Anderson said. "But it seemed to me the landing was smooth."

Anderson, who suffered a sprained ankle, said he just got up and walked out of the plane and that he could not remember any panic after the crash.

"Then all we saw was flames outside and I remember thinking to myself that this is the end of it," he said. "I realized then that we were looking at the inside of a house."

The log book kept by the pilot, W. L. Whitehouse of Springfield, Va., believed among the dead, was found by one of the scores of Chicago firemen who rushed to the scene after the crash ignited fires in several homes.

The Federal Aviation Administration reported no irregularities in the conversation between Flight 553 and the Midway tower during the flight approach. The ceiling was 500 feet and visibility was one mile.

A spokesman for Boeing said this was the first crash of a 737 in which there had been fatalities. The plane can carry 94 passengers.

The plane was on a flight from Washington to Omaha, Neb., with a scheduled 3:31 p.m. EST stop at Chicago.

A team of federal investigators sent to the scene worked through the night in efforts to determine the cause of the crash.

Truman Condition Slightly Better

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Window signs have appeared in the Kansas City area reading "give 'em hell, Harry, let's get well," and although former President Harry S. Truman still is in critical condition he is reported to be fighting back.

The last medical bulletin of the night Friday described Truman's condition as "critical but slightly improved" following a late night feeding.

The Research Hospital and Medical Center statement said Truman, 88, "tolerated" 32 ounces of liquid wheat soya vitamin through a nasal tube between 7 and 10 p.m. EST.

Physicians for the former chief executive reported his pulse rate had slowed, his blood pressure was within normal limits and his fluid output was adequate.

Earlier in the day, hospital authorities had quoted Dr. Wallace Graham, Truman's longtime personal physician, as saying Truman's cardiac condition was "extremely precarious."

That brought an immediate reaction from Margaret Truman Daniel, the Truman's daughter, who arrived here late Wednesday night shortly after the nation's 33rd president was first placed on the critical list.

Appearing before newsmen twice within a two-hour period late Friday, Mrs. Daniel first said the statement attributed to Graham was an "exaggeration."

After conferring with Graham and learning that "extremely precarious" was his description, she returned to the press headquarters and said Graham had assured her that nothing in her father's condition had changed. She said it had been "a misunderstanding" and perhaps "a bad choice of words."

Truman has been struggling with lung congestion and subsequent heart, bronchial and kidney problems. He entered the hospital Tuesday.

The Friday night medical report said the former chief executive "seems to be more reactive."

Unions Ponder High Court Ruling

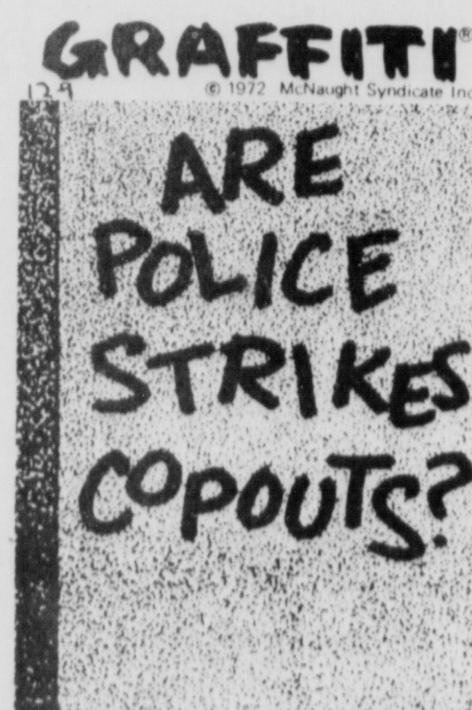

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unions are likely to try to make it tougher for their members to quit during a strike now that the Supreme Court has curbed their power to fine defecting strikebreakers.

This is one possible way around Thursday's 8-1 decision that a member who voted to support a strike can go back to work without fear of punishment as long as he quit the union first.

At that point, said Justice William O. Douglas, "the union has no more control over the former member than it has over the man in the street."

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — After completing his second-term Cabinet selections, President Nixon is moving to shake up middle and upper levels of far-flung federal bureaucracies.

The President announced Friday that Richard G. Kleindienst will remain as attorney general, and thus rounded out the Cabinet team he will have at his side when he is inaugurated on Jan. 20. At the same time, the chief executive disclosed that five key Justice Department aides and two Interior Department officials are leaving the government.

Nixon Shakes Up 2nd-Level Aides

The five Justice Department officials are Deputy Atty. Gen. Ralph E. Erickson, Law Enforcement Assistance Administrator Jerris Leonard and three assistant attorneys general—David Norman, Roger C. Cramton, and Leo M. Pellerzi.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told newsmen at this rainswept presidential retreat that Erickson and Norman will receive judicial appointments. The other three Justice Department officials are returning to private life, he said. So are the two Interior Department

CONCERT — The Circleville Boys Choir under the direction of Paul Dunkle presented a concert of Christmas music at Pickaway Manor Friday afternoon, the first of several planned for the Yule season. At 3 p.m. Sunday in the Community United Methodist Church, the choir will present a concert of

Expect Substantial Boost In Federal Feed Grain Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nixon administration farm officials hope to announce the 1973 feed grain program next week, and there is growing evidence the plan will be adjusted to seek substantial production increases for corn and soybeans.

The Agriculture Department a few weeks ago said an announcement would be made by Dec. 1. But the Office of Management and Budget which is holding close rein on next year's farm payments, reportedly wanted further readings on possible ways to adjust "setaside" acreages and costs to taxpayers.

Also, the severe weather situation which has hampered fall harvests in much of the Corn Belt may have cut 1972 soybean production more than first anticipated.

Officials want to tailor the 1973 feed program so that farmers will be encouraged to produce more corn and soybeans to help supply what experts see as a strong demand for those crops through the 1973-74 marketing season.

One option being considered could entice farmers to plant around 52 million acres of soybeans next spring, up about 12 per cent from 1972. Soybean grower representatives, however, say that is too much and that a 10 per cent increase seems more in line.

However, farm program costs are a factor and the more liberal plan—including possibly a boost of three million acres in 1973 corn plantings—could trim nearly $1 billion from the feed grain program's cost in 1972.

No government estimate has been made of soybean losses to bad weather this harvest, but the USDA reported this week that as of Dec. 3 more than one-fourth of the crop still was in the fields.

Some corn has been lost, too, and demand in the 1972-73 season is expected to exceed the latest crop estimate of 5.4 billion bushels.

The situation—and the administration's cost-consciousness—points to a loosening up of the feed grain program for 1973 so that ample supplies can be produced to meet the growing demands.

Dem Party Showdown Set; Both Sides Claim Victory

WASHINGTON (AP) — The prophetic fight for the Democratic party chairmanship climaxes today as insurgents seek to fire Jean Westwood and replace her with Dallas lawyer Robert Strauss.

Strauss, running with the support of a conservative-moderate coalition seeking to re-impose its traditional party control, claimed to have 110 votes to elect him chairman.

But he conceded there was some doubt over whether all of these would first take the dramatic and highly unorthodox step of first deposing publicly the head of a major political party.

A 105-vote majority would be enough to carry either issue, but Mrs. Westwood, who says she will force Strauss to evict her before he can run for the office, claimed 115 votes against a motion to remove her.

Mrs. Westwood, handpicked by George McGovern for the chairmanship after his presidential nomination last August, has been under heavy pressure to quit ever since his landslide defeat in November.

Strauss, a former party treasurer and one of its most successful money raisers, has the backing of a bloc of labor leaders disgruntled over the McGovern nomination, party conservatives led by a core of Southern governors, and moderates saying they want the party pulled back toward centerfield.

Mrs. Westwood, who offered to resign for virtually any replacement other than Strauss, has shown little desire in recent weeks to keep the job herself if she could hand it over to someone who could preserve at least most of the new party reforms fostered by McGovern.

The outcome of today's showdown was expected to set the tone of the Democrats' political approach and appeal in the years leading up to 1976 when the presidency will be wide open again with the retirement of President Nixon.

Mrs. Westwood offered a week ago before Democratic governors meeting in St. Louis to step down if a compromise candidate could be found. But the governors went ahead and endorsed Strauss and asked Mrs. Westwood to bow out gracefully.

Ziegler also disclosed another major change, announcing that Yale Law professor Robert H. Bork, who helped draft the administration's antibusing proposals, is being nominated to succeed retiring Solicitor Gen. Erwin N. Griswold.

The spokesman said the President also will nominate Chicago attorney Jewel Lafontant as deputy solicitor general. She will be one of the highest-ranking blacks, as well as one of the highest-ranking women, in the second Nixon administration.

No women and no blacks are among Nixon's nominees for the second-term Cabinet. Asked about this, Ziegler said the President had sought out the best qualified individuals and, in any event, already had forged an impressive record in bringing blacks and women into high-level posts.

But, Ziegler said, "the President absolutely will not... appoint people for the purpose of tokenism."

4-H On The Go

JUDY SCHEIN

This past week two outstanding 4-H'ers, Miss Judy Schein and Mr. Steve Johnson, attended National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. Judy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schein, and Steve is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Johnson.

STEVE JOHNSON

They joined some 1600 youth who represented their five million member organization coming from the 50 states, District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and Canada.

Theme for the week was "A New Day — A New Way." In addition to recognizing the accomplishments of 4-H members, the Congress offered new and stimulating educational experiences aimed to contribute to the individual's personal growth and leadership-citizenship capacity.

Delegates visited the International Livestock Exposition, the Chicago Police Department, the Museum of Science and Industry and attended special performances of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, the rock group "The Kids Next Door," and the Chicago Ballet Company. They heard Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz deliver the keynote address and met with other leaders of public offices, business and industry, and the entertainment field in the week-long forum designed to provide inner action and exchange of ideas among youth and adults.

Daily seminars developed from the theme which focused idealism and social consciousness on social concerns.

Judy is a 9-year member of the Deercreek Livestock Club and the Deercreek Busy Bees. Her projects have included beef, sheep, clothing, nutrition, money management, home furnishings, flower gardening, 4-H band, and Junior Leadership. She has served as a camp counselor, 4-H committee representative, Junior Fair Board representative and has held offices in both clubs. Her state award was in citizenship. A graduate of Westfall High School, Judy is now a freshman at Otterbein College.

Steve is an 8-year member of the Deercreek Livestock Club and the Westfall Wranglers. His projects have centered around beef and horses and he was cited as the winner of the state beef award. He has served also as a Junior Leader, a camp counselor and an officer in both clubs. Steve is a senior at Westfall High School.

Four Ohio 4-H members were awarded a total of 32 hundred dollars in scholarships at the 51st National 4-H Congress held in Chicago last week. Each was named a national scholarship winner in programs arranged by the National 4-H Service Committee and supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service. The youth were selected on the basis of their 4-H experience in projects and activities, leadership development and growth in personal, community and civic responsibilities.

Tom Benecke from Napoleon, won a thousand dollar scholarship for safety. Barbara Cripe of Springfield, a winner in home management, and Lowell Miller, a petroleum power winner, each collected 700 dollars, while Bruce McPherson, of Kenton, earned 800 dollars in the crop protection-crop production program.

It is important to store the tree in a cool, shady spot with the butt end in a pail of water to keep it fresh until you are ready to use it. Trimming an inch or so off the butt end before placing the tree in water helps the tree absorb more water.

When you move the tree into your home for decorating, be sure to keep it in the pail of water. Also, add water regularly so the tree does not have a chance to dry out. An average size tree will use a quart to two quarts of water per day, depending on the dryness of the air in your home.

Fertilizers Aid Environment By Retaining Soil

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

"Keeping soil down on the farm is a big factor in preserving a healthy, attractive environment," explains R. Hunter Follett, Extension Agronomist, The Ohio State University. "One of the best ways to keep the soil in place is through the proper use of fertilizers along with other conservation practices," he explains.

A big part of soil conservation — or soil building — is the wise use of chemical fertilizers to keep plants growing vigorously, Follett says. Low fertility means weak plant growth and limited root growth. When plant growth is sparse, raindrops hit the barren soil and loosen it, letting it move down hill with water runoff. "This soil erosion — soil washed into streams and lakes — is the primary hazard to water quality. It is the main factor farm land has been labeled one of the major causes of water pollution," he adds.

Small root growth and little plant residue returned to the field lead to hard soil that doesn't absorb water readily. As the water runs off the land over this hard soil, it carries soil and nutrients with it.

Vigorous plant growth protects the soil from the beating action of raindrops. More water penetrates the soil where healthy plant growth uses it more fully. This adds up to less water runoff and less soil going into the streams and lakes. Excess nutrients can cause underwater plants and algae to grow rapidly and use up the oxygen needed by fish and animal life.

There is also another factor to consider, the specialists continued. Fertilizer has caused man to disturb less of the environment by actually reducing the number of acres he needs to produce his food. Without fertilizer, a state such as Ohio would have to cultivate nearly three times its present corn acreage just to maintain today's total corn yield. This would cut down on land available for forests and other wildlife habitat, and would require the plowing up of many parks that ecologists love.

"Adequate use of fertilizer enables us to get the food we need from our more level and productive land. As a result, we can use the unseeded acres of pastures, trees, and less erosive crops as well as for recreation. It provides ground cover to hold soil in place," Follett insists.

In addition to giving us extra food and fiber, fertilizer actually increases the organic matter content of the soil. It produces large quantities of organic residues on high-producing farms. These organic residues are worked into the soil to help it hold more moisture and permit less runoff. Today's well fertilized farming probably puts back more than twice as much organic residue as the farming of 30 to 40 years ago.

Soil tests, available from the County Extension Service for a small fee, provide an accurate indicator of a soil's need for various fertilizer nutrients. They help us keep our soil down (or maybe it should be "up") on the farm, out of the streams and lakes.

Meal planning becomes a joy, not a chore, when you know food well enough to plan so that your meals are special — especially good, nourishing, satisfying, delightful to eat. Then they will also be a pleasure to prepare. You can enjoy the results three times a day, 1,095 meals a year!

ways. They satisfy nutritionally, by including food from the four basic including food from the four basic groups, and please the tastes of those who share them. They have visual appeal, with contrasts of color, form, and texture; taste-appeal in varied flavors; satisfaction that comes from the best use of foods and effort.

Good meals have never been easier to prepare. Much of the advance work is now done for you: chickens are cleaned, ready to cook; rice pre-cooked; vegetables and fruits handy year 'round in the freezer; cake mixes available in variety; desserts simplified and ready for you to turn out in advance, or even instantly.

The time to prepare a meal, and its elaborateness, are less important than the care with which it is planned, cooked, and served. The important factors in meal planning are some know-how in choosing foods, self-assurance in preparing them, and caring enough to try for special effects.

Just as the four basic food groups help you chart your way through dozens of food values you need every day, four easy steps can simplify your designs for meals:

1. Usually choose your main dish first, making this a good protein source if possible. Then fill it with other foods designed to supplement the main unit. If your main dish is low in protein, plan to make up for this in another part of the meal — add cheese or hard-cooked egg to your salad, or choose a dessert made with milk, for example.

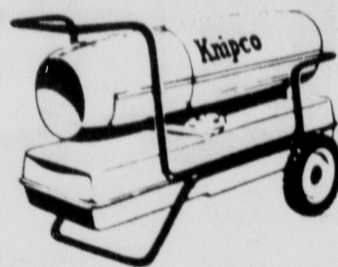

2. Be sure that the menu you plan will be appetizing, with contrasts in color, texture, and flavor. If your meal includes, for instance, the red of meat and the yellow, green, and white of vegetables and fruit, it is likely to be nutritionally balanced, as well as attractive and appealing.

3. Does the menu seem right for the season and the occasion? You want something hot and hearty after winter sports; cool and light on a hot summer day. Take advantage of seasonal specialties to add variety to good menus.

4. Remember the needs and appetites of those for whom you are preparing the meal. By all means introduce new foods and dishes — but couple them with old-time favorites, or dramatize the unique quality, for best acceptance.

And So It Grows

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture
MULCHING STRAWBERRY PLANTS

The period between Thanksgiving and Christmas is usually the best time to mulch strawberry plants. Horticulturists recommend that mulch be applied after the first ground freeze.

Mulching protects strawberry plants against extremely low temperatures and prevents extensive damage to root systems, which often results when plants are subjected to the lifting and settling of soil brought about by alternate freezing and thawing.

One of the most satisfactory materials for mulching strawberry plantings is clean wheat straw which is essentially free of weed and small grain seed. Apply the straw on a calm day by shaking it lightly over the rows. Avoid placing packed bale sections on the plants. Scattered straw settles into place around the plants following snow or rain.

You will want to remove excess mulch in the spring when plant growth starts. Remove only enough mulch to allow plants to grow properly. If all the mulch is removed, berries will become mud splashed during rainy periods. Also, valuable soil moisture will evaporate. Place extra mulch between the rows as it is removed from the row. This will aid in weed control and make a soft resting place for the inees at picking time.

CHRISTMAS TREES

With most of the yard work completed for the winter and Thanksgiving behind us, most folks are turning their thoughts to Christmas and tree buying.

Are you a smart Christmas tree buyer? You can be if you know what to look for when making your tree shopping trip. Run your fingers through the foliage to see if it feels fresh to the touch. Give the tree a good shake. If any needles fall, better look around for another one. If needles hold, give it another check by tapping the tree on the ground. If it passes all these tests, you can be fairly sure the tree is fresh. Browning of needles usually indicates that the tree is already drying out.

If you are going to place the tree in a corner or other location where only one side of the tree needs to be perfect, you can save money by purchasing a slightly lopsided tree. Such trees are usually less expensive and often save space and look as well as the perfectly formed tree, once it is put in place and decorated.

It is important to store the tree in a cool, shady spot with the butt end in a pail of water to keep it fresh until you are ready to use it. Trimming an inch or so off the butt end before placing the tree in water helps the tree absorb more water.

When you move the tree into your home for decorating, be sure to keep it in the pail of water. Also, add water regularly so the tree does not have a chance to dry out. An average size tree will use a quart to two quarts of water per day, depending on the dryness of the air in your home.

They joined some 1600 youth who represented their five million member organization coming from the 50 states, District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and Canada.

Theme for the week was "A New Day — A New Way." In addition to recognizing the accomplishments of 4-H members, the Congress offered new and stimulating educational experiences aimed to contribute to the individual's personal growth and leadership-citizenship capacity.

Delegates visited the International Livestock Exposition, the Chicago Police Department, the Museum of Science and Industry and attended special performances of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, the rock group "The Kids Next Door," and the Chicago Ballet Company. They heard Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz deliver the keynote address and met with other leaders of public offices, business and industry, and the entertainment field in the week-long forum designed to provide inner action and exchange of ideas among youth and adults.

Daily seminars developed from the theme which focused idealism and social consciousness on social concerns.

Judy is a 9-year member of the Deercreek Livestock Club and the Deercreek Busy Bees. Her projects have included beef, sheep, clothing, nutrition, money management, home furnishings, flower gardening, 4-H band, and Junior Leadership. She has served as a camp counselor, 4-H committee representative, Junior Fair Board representative and has held offices in both clubs. Her state award was in citizenship. A graduate of Westfall High School, Judy is now a freshman at Otterbein College.

Steve is an 8-year member of the Deercreek Livestock Club and the Westfall Wranglers. His projects have centered around beef and horses and he was cited as the winner of the state beef award. He has served also as a Junior Leader, a camp counselor and an officer in both clubs. Steve is a senior at Westfall High School.

Four Ohio 4-H members were awarded a total of 32 hundred dollars in scholarships at the 51st National 4-H Congress held in Chicago last week. Each was named a national scholarship winner in programs arranged by the National 4-H Service Committee and supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service. The youth were selected on the basis of their 4-H experience in projects and activities, leadership development and growth in personal, community and civic responsibilities.

Tom Benecke from Napoleon, won a thousand dollar scholarship for safety. Barbara Cripe of Springfield, a winner in home management, and Lowell Miller, a petroleum power winner, each collected 700 dollars, while Bruce McPherson, of Kenton, earned 800 dollars in the crop protection-crop production program.

Fertilizers Aid Environment By Retaining Soil

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

"Keeping soil down on the farm is a big factor in preserving a healthy, attractive environment," explains R. Hunter Follett, Extension Agronomist, The Ohio State University. "One of the best ways to keep the soil in place is through the proper use of fertilizers along with other conservation practices," he explains.

A big part of soil conservation — or soil building — is the wise use of chemical fertilizers to keep plants growing vigorously, Follett says. Low fertility means weak plant growth and limited root growth. When plant growth is sparse, raindrops hit the barren soil and loosen it, letting it move down hill with water runoff. "This soil erosion — soil washed into streams and lakes — is the primary hazard to water quality. It is the main factor farm land has been labeled one of the major causes of water pollution," he adds.

Small root growth and little plant residue returned to the field lead to hard soil that doesn't absorb water readily. As the water runs off the land over this hard soil, it carries soil and nutrients with it.

Vigorous plant growth protects the soil from the beating action of raindrops. More water penetrates the soil where healthy plant growth uses it more fully. This adds up to less water runoff and less soil going into the streams and lakes. Excess nutrients can cause underwater plants and algae to grow rapidly and use up the oxygen needed by fish and animal life.

There is also another factor to consider, the specialists continued. Fertilizer has caused man to disturb less of the environment by actually reducing the number of acres he needs to produce his food. Without fertilizer, a state such as Ohio would have to cultivate nearly three times its present corn acreage just to maintain today's total corn yield. This would cut down on land available for forests and other wildlife habitat, and would require the plowing up of many parks that ecologists love.

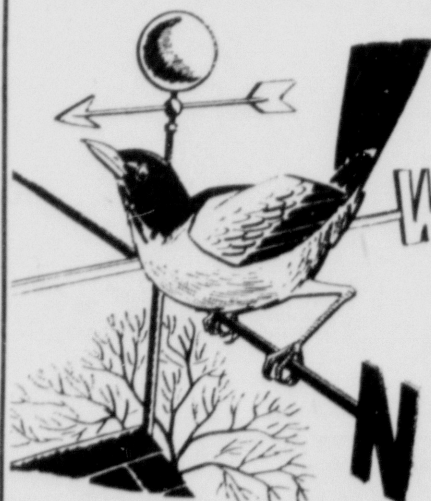

"Adequate use of fertilizer enables us to get the food we need from our more level and productive land. As a result, we can use the unseeded acres of pastures, trees, and less erosive crops as well as for recreation. It provides ground cover to hold soil in place," Follett insists.

In addition to giving us extra food and fiber, fertilizer actually increases the organic matter content of the soil. It produces large quantities of organic residues on high-producing farms. These organic residues are worked into the soil to help it hold more moisture and permit less runoff. Today's well fertilized farming probably puts back more than twice as much organic residue as the farming of 30 to 40 years ago.

Soil tests, available from the County Extension Service for a small fee, provide an accurate indicator of a soil's need for various fertilizer nutrients. They help us keep our soil down (or maybe it should be "up") on the farm, out of the streams and lakes.

Meal planning becomes a joy, not a chore, when you know food well enough to plan so that your meals are special — especially good, nourishing, satisfying, delightful to eat. Then they will also be a pleasure to prepare. You can enjoy the results three times a day, 1,095 meals a year!

ways. They satisfy nutritionally, by including food from the four basic groups, and please the tastes of those who share them. They have visual appeal, with contrasts of color, form, and texture; taste-appeal in varied flavors; satisfaction that comes from the best use of foods and effort.

Good meals have never been easier to prepare. Much of the advance work is now done for you: chickens are cleaned, ready to cook; rice pre-cooked; vegetables and fruits handy year 'round in the freezer; cake mixes available in variety; desserts simplified and ready for you to turn out in advance, or even instantly.

The time to prepare a meal, and its elaborateness, are less important than the care with which it is planned, cooked, and served. The important factors in meal planning are some know-how in choosing foods, self-assurance in preparing them, and caring enough to try for special effects.

Just as the four basic food groups help you chart your way through dozens of food values you need every day, four easy steps can simplify your designs for meals:

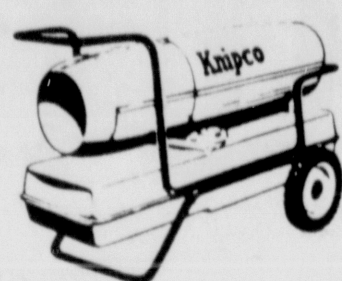

1. Usually choose your main dish first, making this a good protein source if possible. Then fill it with other foods designed to supplement the main unit. If your main dish is low in protein, plan to make up for this in another part of the meal — add cheese or hard-cooked egg to your salad, or choose a dessert made with milk, for example.

2. Be sure that the menu you plan will be appetizing, with contrasts in color, texture, and flavor. If your meal includes, for instance, the red of meat and the yellow, green, and white of vegetables and fruit, it is likely to be nutritionally balanced, as well as attractive and appealing.

3. Does the menu seem right for the season and the occasion? You want something hot and hearty after winter sports; cool and light on a hot summer day. Take advantage of seasonal specialties to add variety to good menus.

4. Remember the needs and appetites of those for whom you are preparing the meal. By all means introduce new foods and dishes — but couple them with old-time favorites, or dramatize the unique quality, for best acceptance.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State officials have worked out a legal reverse play to permit retention of Frank Gray as head of the Chillicothe Correctional Institute.

Joseph Palmer, assistant corrections director, said Gray will be fired from the superintendent's post, then rehired in a classified civil service job, and then named acting superintendent.

A dilemma arose when it was discovered a state law requires that anyone appointed as a managing officer of an institution must hold a position in the classified service.

Before being appointed to the $15,787 a year superintendent's position last June, Gray, 37, had been a psychologist at state penal institutions in Marion, London and Mansfield, but not under civil service.

In explaining the legal maneuvering, Palmer said Gray "is an excellent superintendent and we want to keep him."

Country Music Dean Is Hospitalized

FRANKLIN, Tenn. (AP) — Kirk McGee of Franklin, 73, half of a duo prominent in the country-music field for about half a century, is hospitalized in fair condition with heart trouble.

McGee plays banjo, fiddle and guitar while brother Sam plays the flat-top guitar.

They are among the original performers on the Grand Ole Opry, but Kirk's performances have been curtailed because of his heart condition. They made their first performance on the Opry in 1925.

Lovable 800-Pound Pig Proves Ideal Family Pet

FIREBAUGH, Calif. (AP) — James and Mickey Boccabella have gone whole hog when it comes to a family pet; they've got Arnold — a lovable, 800-pound, housebroken pig.

Actor Sentenced For Dope Smuggling

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Norman A. Gibbs, who had parts in "The French Connection" and "The Godfather," has been sentenced to four years in prison for trying to smuggle $1.5 million in drugs into the United States.

Customs agents said they found 14 pounds of cocaine in the false bottom of a suitcase Gibbs, 24, tried to bring into Los Angeles from Acapulco, Mexico, last July 23.

President Nixon Becoming Mod?

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — President Nixon has blue slacks and maroon trousers — but purple, flared trousers? The White House isn't saying.

Asked about reports that the chief executive has been seen strolling about this presidential retreat in flared purple pants, press secretary Ronald A. Ziegler responded Thursday: "Flared is a bit of an exaggeration."

Mickey says. "And he loves most people."

Arnold, who happens to bark like a dog and sometimes eats four dozen donuts for breakfast, has his own bedroom — where he sleeps 20 hours a day — in the Boccabellas' San Joaquin Valley home.

Boccabella brought Arnold home the day he was born more than two years ago. Arnold was the runt of a litter of seven pigs and was unable to stand or nurse. He weighed two pounds and "all who saw it said it wasn't going to make it," Mrs. Boccabella said.

But with hand nursing and constant attention, Arnold grew to be a healthy three feet tall and seven feet long.

Mrs. Boccabella and her daughter, Patty, used to take Arnold for rides in the car, until he reached 500 pounds and outgrew the family sedan.

"He would get so excited, he'd foam at the mouth when we'd drive downtown or to the ranch; and, when somebody came along side the car, he'd start barking," Mrs. Boccabella said.

One motorist was so startled when she saw Arnold in the car "she darn near turned her car over," Mrs. Boccabella added.

On another occasion, a deliveryman knocked at the front door. But, when he saw Arnold peering from behind Mrs. Boccabella, he beat a hasty retreat. "We have never seen him since."

We're still in business to supply clean-burning energy.
And we plan to be in business for generations to come.

The future looks bright. But, the problem is . . . now.

We've been telling you about it. The natural gas shortage.

So now we're going to give you some ideas for using less gas.

Even on the coldest day, you should let direct sunlight in through your windows.

It will help heat your home.

When there's no sun, close your drapes to keep your heat from leaking out.

It will make a difference.

And here are some other ways you can conserve gas:

Insulate your home and seal the drafty areas around doors and windows.

Have your furnace checked periodically by your heating dealer to make sure it is operating efficiently.

Check your furnace filters often to be certain they're clean.

Turn your thermostat down to the lowest comfortable temperature and leave it there.

All these things will add to your comfort and you'll use less gas.

Common Market Squeeze

Continuing debate over whether the Federal Reserve Board should change its credit policy to meet the needs of a predicted business expansion is not particularly useful. Occasional conflicting statements issuing from within the reserve system itself certainly do not help to dispel the confusion.

The Reserve Board's role has been greatly downgraded by the Nixon administration, which does not seem to relish its independent status. But the board continues to play a role in the economy and may again play a more vital role in the future. At present it seems to be serving more on a stand-by than in an advisory capacity.

There is less fear now of crazy inflation than there was a year or two ago. Certainly no one foresees the danger of Chilean-type inflation here now. Chilean prices have zoomed 100 per cent in less than a year.

It is in time of extreme economic crisis that the Federal Reserve Board is asked to act. It is always ready to do so in time of emergency.

Strains On Stability

Early in the development of the European Economic Community, or Common Market, American officials provided encouragement and assistance. They saw in the move for closer European unity not only greater prosperity for that continent but a potentially larger market for American trade goods.

Second thoughts are creeping into that assessment, privately if not publicly. There is no question that the Common Market is a success as far as the six present members (soon to be nine) are concerned.

But definite signs are appearing that non-members, including the United States, will have a tougher time trading with the bloc if present policies continue.

What has happened over the years is that the same set of internal subsidies and favored trade treatment accorded each other by the members of the alliance are being used to exclude competition from outside. One example is the "reverse preferential" agreements the Common Market is offering less developed countries.

In exchange for lower tariff barriers for the importation of raw materials from the poorer countries, those countries are granting preferential treatment for the importation of finished goods from the Common Market. The effect is a squeeze on American trade at both ends.

Castro's Decline

By JEFFREY HART

Fidel Castro's decision to impose harsh jail sentences on the American hijackers, and, especially, his care to give that decision maximum publicity, represents a clear move on his part toward better relations with Washington.

And why, indeed, should he not desire them? His regime has been an unmitigated disaster, and any potential he ever had as a revolutionary force has long evaporated.

The Cuban economy is a shambles, an achievement for which Castro himself rather disarmingly took full credit in a three-hour speech two years ago.

His international reputation stands at rock bottom. Moscow pours a million dollars a day down the Cuban rat hole, but clearly regards Castro as an anachronistic embarrassment. Soviet technicians in Cuba view the performance of the Castro system with contempt.

Western intellectuals, smelling failure, have junked Castro completely. People like Sartre, Beauvoir, and Sontag used to make pilgrimages to Cuba, returning to write panegyrics draped in murky metaphysics. But all that has been dead for several years, and in that quarter Fidel now probably ranks in appeal just ahead of Mayor Daley.

On the theoretical level the jig is up, too. When Castro came to power, a great deal was written by Sartre, by Regis Debray, by Che himself, and by a horde of fatuous academics, about how the Cuban movement represented a new theoretical breakthrough within Marxism: a "revolution within the revolution," as Debray put it.

The traditional Marxist view was too pedantic and gradualist, they held. You did not have to wait for the revolutionary "contradictions" to develop. And the older view that the industrial workers were the prime revolutionary power base hardly seemed promising.

No, the peasant, as in Cuba, was the new revolutionary force: more or less instantly ignitable. As in Cuba, the middle-class guerrilla should disappear into the hills and live among the peasants. He would become a revolutionary by living the revolution. Marx was stood on his head. It was most exciting.

But put to the test by Che Guevara in Bolivia, this theory crashed to the ground. Local conditions varied, it turned out, and the Cuban pattern could not be duplicated. Rural insurgencies failed in Bolivia, in Brazil and elsewhere. Counter-insurgency techniques, developed in the U.S., proved all too effective. Guevara's fingertips, chopped off for indification purposes, were duly forwarded to the capital.

In retrospect, the significance of Guevara's failure for Castroism cannot be overestimated. With Castro's domestic policy a hopeless failure, he now saw his foreign policy Castroite revolution in Latin America — collapse too. During the past year, he has attempted political visits to both Chile and the Soviet block, and in both cases it was only too clear that he was generally viewed as a minor and inconsequential figure.

For the last five years or so, like any down at heels Third World caudillo, Castro has struggled for maneuvering room by playing one great power against another — depending upon Moscow, gesturing toward China diplomatically and, when he dared, moving toward China in the interecine struggle within the Communist world. Thus Castro has nothing to lose by seeking an accommodation with Nixon. He might get some marginal diplomatic leverage out of it; we might get some cigars; Havana would be off-limits to hijackers.

And Castro's place in history is secure — the history, that is, of men's styles. During the 1690's, Castro contributed the beard to the salon guerrillas and classroom barbudos of the Western middle class.

Many readers have responded to a statement I made in one of my columns suggesting that they remember the word "prostaglandin." Exciting studies are being reported from all over the world about these remarkable hormone-like compounds that are being identified in almost every tissue of the body.

At first, they aroused only scientific curiosity. Now, they may play a great role in many of the important ills of man.

Dangerous blood clots, high blood pressure, severe inflammation, and even problems of fertility may be affected by these startling substances.

The horizon of enthusiasm seems to be almost limitless. Already some of the prostaglandin compounds are being released in selective cases for use in hospitals and in clinics.

When physicians are completely familiar with the complexities of these agents, and when their safety is totally established, they will be used for medical problems that today seem unsolvable.

Occasionally, the early symptoms of pregnancy may be confused with other conditions.

Both patient and doctor may not know that an early pregnancy is involved.

In order to uncover early pregnancy, a new two-minute urine test is being used.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The term "small investor" is "demeaning and totally inappropriate," the speaker told the assembly of graduate business students. "It is belittling; it should be dropped from the vernacular."

As used by the brokerage community, he continued, it is a term of condescension, implying that the more important customer is the institution and that the small investor therefore is a second-class citizen.

There is little new in such an observation when made by a small investor. It is the attitude of brokers that big is better, in fact, that has alienated so many ordinary Americans and driven them into other investments.

But the comments, so typical of small investors, were made by Arthur Levitt, Jr., head of Hayden Stone Inc., a major brokerage house. And they were among other provocations that made his talk a significant document in the evolution of Wall Street.

Speaking at the Columbia University Business School this week about what he said were "personal feelings not shared by a number of my associates," Levitt suggested that "unaffiliated" or "individual" or "consumer" be used in place of "small."

He explained that if brokers remembered that "while institutions today do over 60 per cent of the trading, individual investors own over 60 per cent of the stock," they would realize the unproductiveness of their snobbishness.

Because of the broker-institution alliance, the small investor usually obtains poorer research, receives less attention, and is accorded less overall solicitude, said Levitt.

This, he suggested, is opposite to the proper attitude. "In my judgment," he said, "the consumer investor needs more time and consideration, more guidance and more education than the institutional investor ..."

A cause of the inferior service, he stated, is the existence of a compensation system that rewards the broker for making sales while he poses in the conflicting role of adviser.

Stating what a lot of small investors have been saying for years, he argued that the quest for commissions might

Dr. Glenna Corley, at the Lenox Hill Hospital in New York City, has been routinely testing a large group of women who had medical complaints, but did not have knowledge of existing pregnancy. Thirteen cases of unsuspected pregnancy were found among 300 women.

The significance of uncovering early pregnancy in these cases is that some tests and some drugs normally used for a medical condition might possibly have an adverse effect on the unborn child.

Rapid urine tests can be easily performed in the doctor's office.

One of the dangerous complications of severe automobile accidents involving multiple fractures in the "fat embolism."

A tiny bit of fatty tissue enters the blood, stream and circulates throughout the body, producing life-threatening complications.

Dr. Robert P. Horne, of the Cottonwood Hospital in Utah, sees a great many serious emergency cases because of the vast complex of highways that surround his area.

Dr. Horne has been using a simple, but remarkably effective technique that seems to have almost totally removed the threat of "fat embolism."

By using early and immediate concentrated sugar solution in the vein, this serious complication has been reduced to a minimum.

tempt some salesmen to "suggest portfolio changes when their best judgment told them this was a time to do nothing."

In his own personal view, he said, the answer to this dilemma is to take salesmen off commissions, to raise the standards of training, and to inspire them with a sense of professionalism that is badly lacking.

"What we should strive for is the creation of job security for professional brokers who have the welfare of the investor as their foremost objective," he said.

This, he continued, would require a basic salary structure rather than commissions. In addition, the salesman broker would be paid for bringing in new accounts, for making few mistakes, for longevity, for maintaining customer loyalty.

Such a system is being considered by some firms, but as Levitt said after the address, "it will take guts to implement," mainly because if other firms don't follow it will put the innovator at a disadvantage. Still, he said it must be at least considered as the way of the future.

Basic to such a plan, he feels, a better training. You will understand this need, he said, when you "think of the responsibility carried by a broker who counsels an individual on the management of his total life's savings."

"We should strive towards formal academic programs and proficiency testing similar to other nonscientific professions and we should enlist the aid of universities and business schools," he told the students.

Levitt spoke to the students, he said, because he viewed their forum as an opportunity to introduce concepts for discussion. It is impractical to institute some of the concepts now, he said, but not soon enough to begin working toward them.

While the students were receptive to his suggestions, some adverse criticism already has been heard in The Street, where traditions, good or bad, die slowly.

NEW YORK (AP) — Everything on earth matures and grows older — from microbes to oak trees.

But some things grow older sooner than they have to. People in particular do. Some people.

They let the years suffocate them early. They give up on life and become tiresome victims of their own ennui. They deliberately seek the safety and anonymity of the rut. How can one tell if he is unconsciously letting himself act and feel older than he really needs to be? Well, if the person is you, you should give yourself a shaking up if these things are true of you:

You wait until a new film is on television before you see it. Why go to the bother of going out to a movie and paying money now when you can see it for nothing in a year or two or three?

You never have to look around the house to find anything, because you know where everything is — it's just where it belongs.

It has been three months since you read a new book, and it'll probably be another three months before you get around to reading one.

In the last five years you haven't made two new friends, or even found one that you're really struck by. And you'd rather talk to your old friends over the telephone than go places with them.

Reading the obituary page of your newspaper gives you more pleasure than reading the sports pages. On the other hand, there are a lot of days when nobody interesting seems to die, aren't there?

Electoral College To Ratify Nixon Election On Dec. 18

The Circleville Herald, Saturday December 9, 1972

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Electoral College, which doesn't have much to do, will do it on Dec. 18, formally ratifying President Nixon's landslide re-election over Democrat George McGovern.

Its ritual duty will be performed in state capitals across the nation, certified and sent along to Congress for the final formality of re-electing the Republican President.

In 49 states, Republican electors chosen in Nixon's name in the Nov. 7 election will convene for the ceremony of recording their votes.

Only in Massachusetts, with 14 electoral votes, and in the District of Columbia, with three, is there anything for the McGovern electors to do.

Under the Constitution, members of the Electoral College are technically free agents and can vote as they please. But only six times have electors defied the voters of their states and cast ballots for anyone but the presidential candidate in whose name they were elected.

There is no indication that any elector plans such a move this time. So the score will be Nixon 521 electoral votes, Sen. McGovern 17.

The whole process is set by Constitution, by federal law and by practice. Under it, voters actually cast ballots for slates of presidential electors drawn up by the political parties in each state. The number of electors is equal to each state's delegation in the House and Senate.

The electors vote by ballot for president and vice president. The ballots then are certified and sent to the president of the Senate, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

That's it for the Electoral College. Congress acts out the final piece of the ritual next month. By law, House and Senate meet in joint session at 1 p.m. on Jan. 6.

At that session, Agnew, as president of the Senate, opens the electoral certificates and the votes are counted. That will make formal, two months after the fact, the reelection of Nixon and Agnew.

Electoral College To Ratify Nixon Election On Dec. 18

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Electoral College, which doesn't have much to do, will do it on Dec. 18, formally ratifying President Nixon's landslide re-election over Democrat George McGovern.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Holiday Party Spoiled

DEAR ABBY: Now that the holidays are upon us, would you please share my unpleasant experience with your readers before it is too late?

Recently my husband and I hosted an "office" party in our new home. There were husbands and wives, some singles and their dates, and all but a few were total strangers.

We decided to confine our party to our hug recreation room area which is completely furnished with bar and rest room facilities.

During the evening we noticed a few guests roaming around the rest of the house on their own. After the party was over, my husband discovered that his wallet, which he had left on his bureau in the master bedroom had been emptied. I noticed later that a few small art objects were missing. We were shocked!

Abby, how can a hostess keep her guests confined to a given party area without insulting them? When the florist suggested putting up "decorative velvet ropes" to indicate where there shall be no trespassing, we were appalled. Now I'm sorry we didn't.

DISILLUSIONED

DEAR DISILLUSIONED: Even "roping off" areas is not adequate protection against a clever thief. It's a pity that thieves must spoil it for the majority. The only advice I can offer is to "know thy guests."

DEAR ABBY: The wife and I are having a disagreement I wish you would settle. Here is our problem: We have trouble meeting our monthly mortgage payments to the extent of always getting behind and having to pay late charges. We both drive old jalopies that nickel and dime us to death, and we are in hock up to our eyeballs, putting everything on credit and trying to keep up with the Joneses.

Our daughter is marrying a young man who is in the chips, so her mother went ahead and laid away a $300 wedding gown, and is planning a wedding like Lyndon Johnson gave for his girls.

Jennie Sue is a pretty girl, and she doesn't give a hoot for this boy. She is only interested in his money, but my wife says this is one wedding that is going to be the talk of the town. (It sure is, when I file bankruptcy to pay the bills.)

I said, "If this marriage lasts I will be a monkey's uncle, so why don't you just get Jennie Sue a $30 wedding gown and give ten bucks to the preacher and skip the frills and the bills?"

Whose side are you on, Abby? BROKE AND DISGUSTED

DEAR B. AND D.: Yours, if you're telling it like it is. And I think you are.

DEAR ABBY: I was truly saddened see the letters in your column from readers who wore dentures, because you gave the impression that false teeth were as good as natural teeth.

Abby, artificial teeth, like artificial arms and legs, are a burden that must be borne by many, but no manmade substitute can compare with nature's originals.

We know that dental disease and tooth loss are brought about as a result of organized bacteria accumulating at and beneath the gum margin, and with proper care, the only reasons for further loss are ignorance, accident or total neglect.

If people would brush their teeth properly and faithfully, use dental floss regularly, and see their dentists for periodic checkups, they can keep their teeth a lifetime.

N.C. DENTIST

DEAR DENTIST: I'll take 20 lashes with 50,000 yards of dental floss! It wasn't my intention to minimize the

Oil Import Rules To Be Relaxed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Office of Emergency Preparedness said today oil import regulations will be relaxed during the first four months of 1973 to increase the supply of fuel oil for heating.

The actions are being taken to "meet the tight fuel situation," said the announcement.

OEP Director G. A. Lincoln said the Interior Department will soon publish official notice of suspension of the requirement that imports of No. 2 heating oil be manufactured from crude oil produced in the Western Hemisphere.

Marshall Crash Contributions Unused

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — More than two years have passed since an outpouring of sympathy hit the Marshall University campus following the crash of a DC9 jetliner carrying the school's football team, coaching staff and many team supporters.

More than $350,000 from all parts of the nation was donated to a special memorial fund in the wake of the disaster, with about $260,000 intended "to meet the immediate human needs" of surviving relatives of the crash's 75 victims.

Today, most of the money remains unused in a Huntington bank.

The university's foundation board of directors, a group of administrators and influential community businessmen, has served as caretaker for the fund since its inception — intermittently drawing criticism for a series of delays in its distribution.

The board has periodically made public the growth of the fund and says it will remain in trust until a distribution formula can be worked out.

"We've never had to deal with anything like this," one board member explained. "Suddenly, we found ourselves in a most unique situation ... we've had to deal with caution because of the threat of legal action."

Last May, after months of determining exactly what constituted human need, the board decided on a distribution plan that would divide the fund equally between surviving families with allotments of $1,000 to each surviving child. Each family would receive about $3,140.

But that plan will not be enacted until a court test of its legality is completed.

Court costs and legal fees will be paid out of the fund as has the salary of a fund administrator since last July.

Other portions of the fund have been disposed of. They include:

—$25,000 for a memorial fountain outside the school's student center.
—$4,197 in gifts specially designated by donors to the school's badly shaken athletic program.

—$336.03 from a discretionary fund for Christmas gifts to surviving children of the victims.

—$64,912 in miscellaneous donations bearing special designations.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Holiday Party Spoiled

DEAR ABBY: Now that the holidays are upon us, would you please share my unpleasant experience with your readers before it is too late?

Recently my husband and I hosted an "office" party in our new home. There were husbands and wives, some singles and their dates, and all but a few were total strangers.

We decided to confine our party to our hug recreation room area which is completely furnished with bar and rest room facilities.

During the evening we noticed a few guests roaming around the rest of the house on their own. After the party was over, my husband discovered that his wallet, which he had left on his bureau in the master bedroom had been emptied. I noticed later that a few small art objects were missing. We were shocked!

Abby, how can a hostess keep her guests confined to a given party area without insulting them? When the florist suggested putting up "decorative velvet ropes" to indicate where there shall be no trespassing, we were appalled. Now I'm sorry we didn't.

DISILLUSIONED

DEAR DISILLUSIONED: Even "roping off" areas is not adequate protection against a clever thief. It's a pity that thieves must spoil it for the majority. The only advice I can offer is to "know thy guests."

DEAR ABBY: The wife and I are having a disagreement I wish you would settle. Here is our problem: We have trouble meeting our monthly mortgage payments to the extent of always getting behind and having to pay late charges. We both drive old jalopies that nickel and dime us to death, and we are in hock up to our eyeballs, putting everything on credit and trying to keep up with the Joneses.

Our daughter is marrying a young man who is in the chips, so her mother went ahead and laid away a $300 wedding gown, and is planning a wedding like Lyndon Johnson gave for his girls.

Jennie Sue is a pretty girl, and she doesn't give a hoot for this boy. She is only interested in his money, but my wife says this is one wedding that is going to be the talk of the town. (It sure is, when I file bankruptcy to pay the bills.)

I said, "If this marriage lasts I will be a monkey's uncle, so why don't you just get Jennie Sue a $30 wedding gown and give ten bucks to the preacher and skip the frills and the bills?"

Whose side are you on, Abby?

BROKE AND DISGUSTED

DEAR B. AND D.: Yours, if you're telling it like it is. And I think you are.

DEAR ABBY: I was truly saddened to see the letters in your column from readers who wore dentures, because you gave the impression that false teeth were as good as natural teeth.

Abby, artificial teeth, like artificial arms and legs, are a burden that must be borne by many, but no manmade substitute can compare with nature's originals.

We know that dental disease and tooth loss are brought about as a result of organized bacteria accumulating at and beneath the gum margin, and with proper care, the only reasons for further loss are ignorance, accident or total neglect.

If people would brush their teeth properly and faithfully, use dental floss regularly, and see their dentists for periodic checkups, they can keep their teeth a lifetime.

N.C. DENTIST

DEAR DENTIST: I'll take 20 lashes with 50,000 yards of dental floss! It wasn't my intention to minimize the

Oil Import Rules To Be Relaxed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Office of Emergency Preparedness said today oil import regulations will be relaxed during the first four months of 1973 to increase the supply of fuel oil for heating.

The actions are being taken to "meet the tight fuel situation," said the announcement.

OEP Director G. A. Lincoln said the Interior Department will soon publish official notice of suspension of the requirement that imports of No. 2 heating oil be manufactured from crude oil produced in the Western Hemisphere.

The date is now firm for the Westfall Band's Christmas Concert. The first note will waft over those assembled in the auditorium at 3 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 17. This is always a delightful performance (the band is ever and always top drawer). We do hope the weather co-operates so the less adventuresome soul will be able to attend and it will be S.R.O. (standing room only) as it nearly always is when the band performs. Maestro Jim Kibby and his bandsmen are hard at work preparing for the upcoming event. Can I count you in my carload, Aunt Gladys and Ruth?

On Tuesday evening, Dec. 19, the youngsters at Jackson Elementary School will present their Christmas Program that they have been diligently working on for the past several days. Mark the date on your calendar!

We are so sorry our dear friend Mrs. J. R. Bright had to return to the hospital for further treatment. She is a patient at University Hospital, Room 963 and at this writing is showing some improvement which is good news for all those concerned.

Byron Carter was rushed to Riverside Hospital early Sunday morning and underwent an emergency appendectomy. He, too, is on the mend but it will be several days before he will be back at the "old routine." Anxiously awaiting daddy's return home are daughters Lisa and Chari and spouse Ethel. Byron is hopeful of being released from the hospital this week-end. He will spend part of his recuperation time at the home of his parents, Tom and Mae Carter who live just around the corner.

David and Marabel Drummond joined with other members of their Pickaway County Farm Bureau group Tuesday evening and enjoyed the annual Christmas outing which this year took them to the Columbus-Springfield Dinner Theater. The buffet supper was very good and so was the play which was The Odd Couple.

Recent weekend visitors of Mrs. Inez Lingo were her daughter and granddaughter, Mrs. Faye Mellinger and LuAnn of Wooster and a friend of LuAnn's. Also coming over from Fairborn for a visit with grandmother were Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Hite and little one.

Still have some Thanksgiving doings that concern the Lawrence Carle family. Donna Carle and brother Tom and Drew Ley of Pittsburgh, Pa. were weekend guests at home. Janet Carle was the Thanksgiving guest of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Matthews and family of Canton.

Noon dinner guests at the Carle abode were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Watson, Peggy, Helen and Mary K. of Columbus, Tom, Donna, Jim, Mike, Rosemary, Pat and Donald Carle. Additional supper guests were David Carle and his Mrs. of Medway, Randy and Marty McCoy and Beth Ann of New Holland and Mr. Henry Butt of Circleville.

Now, on Saturday night, likeable Lawrence celebrated his birthday and gathering round to wish him many more were all of the aforementioned Carle images plus Grandpa and Grandma Bumgarner of Ashville, Grandma Carle, Sterley Croman and Henry Butt of Circleville, Chuck Matthews of Canton and Drew Ley of Pittsburgh and bustling about getting it all put together was Dorable Dorothy.

November Euchre meeting held at yours truly's home found prizes going to Dorothy Carle, high; Mae Litter, traveling; Pearl Cochenour, low; most lone hands was a three way tie won by this writer. Also playing were Marabel

Once again our community was deeply shocked and saddened by the death of Kitty Higman, young mother of Laura, Sammy and Tommy and beloved wife of Lowell. Our condolences to the entire family. We share in their grief.

Flying in from Albuquerque, New Mexico to be with his family in their hour of need was Harlan Higman, his wife and children. They returned home Wednesday. Jack and Marilyn Higman Armentrout, Peggy, Becky and John of Fremont came Monday and remained overnight with Mrs. Charles Higman. Jack had the misfortune recently to suffer a broken left foot and smashed toes.

Judy Higman Speakman, Dick and their boys Steve and Bob of Clarksburg spent much time with mother Una during this tragic event as did Myrna Higman Hosler, her husband and son of Circleville. Bob Speakman has suffered two recent mishaps involving both his left and right arms.

Another upcoming weekend will find many loyal Westfall fans rooting for their boys at the basketball games. So far they have not made it to the winning side of the ledger but they have never stopped trying and that has to count for something somewhere. May I be so bold as to suggest that those parents who are so busy "putting down" certain members of the team use this same energy to support and encourage all the boys?

Family Planning Services Slated For Ohio Counties

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— State officials say family planning and birth control services probably will be provided in the 14 Ohio counties still without them under an expanded program being prepared by the Welfare Department.

More than $2 million—three-fourths of its federal funds—will be spent with county health departments, Planned Parenthood, hospitals and other family planning, services for expanded information, education, medical and out-reach services.

While funds have not been specifically earmarked for the counties currently without public family planning operations, they "will be allocated on need and these certainly qualify," said Kay Buchanan, head of the Welfare Department's womens and children's services division.

Those counties are Van Wert, Putnam, Hancock, Hardin, Wyandot, Marion, Union, Delaware, Ashland, Wayne, Medina, Carroll, Harrison and Tuscarawas.

Officials said the program represents a massive expansion of Welfare Department services in the area of family planning.

"Of course, the state has always been involved in so-called birth control services, just not to this extent," said Richard Lightner, the department's public affairs director.

"Counties have been required to provide this family planning service since January, 1971, under the social service program," Lightner said. "But local funds have not always been available. That's why we're providing this money."

Acting Welfare Director Robert Canary said a lack of family planning "can lead to health, economic, psychological and marital problems which are the central reasons why many families in Ohio have to accept public assistance."

Women of child-bearing age from families who are current, past or potential recipients of public assistance are eligible for services under the expanded program, Canary said.

Santa and the ICE KING by Lucrece Beale

SYNOPSIS: The Eskimo festival failed to lift the continuous winter from the Eskimo lands. Although Miski the wise man says nothing more can be done, Onnik the Eskimo boy is determined to try another plan.

CHAPTER THREE SANTA AT SEA

With Keotuk at his heels Onnik ran home. He found his sled frozen to the side of the igloo. With his snow knife he cut it free. The sled was made of bone and pieces of driftwood, with reindeer antlers as a handle. It was small but sturdy.

He harnessed Keotuk and tied his snow saw and seal spear on to the sled.

igloo where all the Eskimos of the Village were gathered.

"Father," said Onnik, touching his father's arm. "Is it true that one the far side of the Arctic Sea is Santa Land?"

His father nodded. "So I have always heard."

"Then," said Onnik, "I am going there."

"What are you saying?" cried his father in astonishment.

"Santa Claus is very powerful," said Onnik. "He knows when I have been good and when I have been bad. He knows what to bring me for Christmas. He always comes every Christmas Eve no matter how stormy the weather."

"So," said his father.

"So," said Onnik, "If Santa can do all these things he can surely cure the Ice King of his rage. I will go and ask his help."

"Son," said the father, "you could never get to Santa Land. It is too far and the storms come too fast, and too often. You would die."

"If I stay here we all will die," replied Onnik. "Please, father. My sled is fast and Keotuk is the best dog in the village."

"Miski, the wise man, put his hand on Onnik's shoulder. "You are brave and wise," he murmured. He turned to the father. "Let him go," he said. "It is our only chance."

Onnik's father saw that this was so. "Go then," he said, sadly. "Perhaps your small weight and fast sled will help you make it where no one else could."

Onnik ran out to his sled. "Go, Keotuk!" he cried.

Slipping and falling, Keotuk slowly hauled the sled up the ice mountain and down to the frozen sea. It would be hard to say how many days Onnik traveled. Since it was a summer month (despite the cold) there was no night for, in Eskimo land, the summer is a time of never-ending day just as in the wintertime there is never-ending night. Finally he saw mountains ahead.

"Not much further," he cried cheerily to the dog. "When we get to the mountains we'll be in Santa Land."

"But, though Keotuk pulled on and on, they never seemed to get any closer and after a while storm clouds came down low over the sea and Onnik could not even see the mountain any more.

"This is going to be a big storm," he murmured as he anxiously studied the lowering sky. "We'd better stop."

He was especially careful digging his snow cave. He made it large and deep and when he and Keotuk were safely in he turned the sled on its side and pulled it against the opening to keep out the wind. He had hardly finished when the full might of the Ice King's fury burst down upon the sea.

But Onnik didn't care. He snuggled against Keotuk's warm fur and fell asleep.

He was awakened by a terrible noise of crashing ice. He was thrn across the cave and Keotuk came tumbling after him. Then they both slid to the top of the cave. Horrified, Onnik saw that the cave was collapsing.

The ice field on which the cave was had been broken into pieces and now the huge chunks of ice were grinding together, crumbling and piling on top of one another like toy blocks tossed about by a playful giant.

Shaking with fright, Onnik suddenly felt the cave being liften into the air. Then, midst a thousand tons of ice, the cave burst open and Onnik was sliding down an enormous slab of ice.

Down, down, down, he plunged straight toward a pool of churning black water at the bottom of the upended cake of ice.

"Oh, help! help!" cried Onnik. "This is the end of me!"

Remember, too that the planning committee (Jack Brayshaw, Jim Cochenour and Glen Whitten) is hoping for some contributions from the local citizenry and other interested folks to help defray expenses of a spot of holiday decorating at the Pavilion. There will be two dances held throughout the holiday period. Besides the one on Christmas night another one will be held on Dec. 30 complete with hats and noisemakers. Give some thought as to how much having a Fire Dept. means to our village and then think about contributing to their cause. Then do it. It is all volunteer work — not one man receives his bread and butter money.

Apollo 17 Crewmen Brush Teeth After Every Meal

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 17 astronauts are following that old dental maxim and brushing after every meal. And, even though they have to swallow the toothpaste, their medical observers say the exercise gives them a psychological boost.

Eugene A. Cernan, Harrison H. Schmitt and Ronald E. Evans use toothbrushes much like those found in bathrooms of the average home, but there are some space-age twists.

Dr. William J. Frome, an Air Force officer in charge of astronauts' dental care, said the three brush with a special toothpaste developed by the Air Force and modified for use in space.

Foaming agents have been removed, and the calcium content has been lowered so as not to interfere with studies of the astronauts' metabolism.

Frome said astronauts on earlier flights reported that brushing refreshed them, especially since they could not take a shower or bath.

One, he said, even claimed that the peppermint-flavored toothpaste tasted better than the food.

While brushing, the astronauts must keep their mouths closed to prevent escape of the debris because of the lack of gravity. For this reason, they have to swallow the toothpaste.

After brushing, they suck the toothbrushes as dry as possible and store them for later use. They also are equipped with dental floss for removing resistant food particles between their teeth.

Frome said the astronauts have a dental examination at least every six months and see their dentist more often if they have a problem.

Circleville Tigers Beat Hillsboro, 73-51

LAYUP — Graham fights his way through for a bucket in the Circleville Tigers' 73-51 win over Hillsboro Friday in the CHS gym. Don Jewett of Hillsboro watches. The player in the number 24 jersey behind Jewett is Dave Truex who led both teams in scoring with 21 points. Graham finished the night with 18.

Using a defense that was stickier than a tar road on a hot summer day the Circleville Tigers rolled over Hillsboro 73-51 Friday night on the Red and Black floor to run their season record to 4-0 and gain their second win in South Central Ohio League competition.

With an offense that sputtered in the first half and couldn't seem to find the range, the Tigers relied on a strong defensive effort to hold the Indians in check.

The Tigers held a narrow 12-10 lead at the end of the first quarter and went to the locker room at halftime with a 30-19 lead.

But the offense of the Tigers began to smooth out in the third quarter and the lights began to flicker on the scoreboard.

With Dan Graham hitting from underneath the bucket, Dave Truex connecting from the corners, Greg Hoskins driving and Glen Gillespie converting from the charity stripe, the Tigers jumped out to a 47-33 margin at the conclusion of the period and were never in any serious trouble the rest of the way.

The Red and Black continued to move in the final period and put 26 more points in the winning ledger.

The Tigers used the foul line in the final period to put the game on ice with Truex, Gillespie, Robin Martin and Kris Kline connecting on 12 of 15 charity tosses.

Kline and Truex each added a pair of buckets with Graham, Greg Hoskins and Doug Radabaugh coming up with a basket apiece in the period to offset a scoring effort on the part of Don Jewett and Arnie Jewett for the Indians.

Tempers flared briefly under the basket midway through the final period and Greg Hoskins and Bill Housh of Hillsboro sat out the rest of the contest as a result of the altercation.

With the win over Hillsboro coming on the heels of a Circleville victory at Wilmington the Tigers are now in a good spot for a run at the SCOL crown.

The big test will come next week when the Tigers travel to Miami Trace in a crucial league battle.

Truex paced the Tiger offense with eight from the field and five from the free throw line for a total of 21 points for the night's work.

Graham came up with a fine scoring effort inside to put 18 more points in the book, Greg Hoskins added 13, Kline and Martin had six points apiece, Gillespie five and Radabaugh four to complete the scoring.

Don Jewett led the Indians with 10 markers while Housh and Kevin Bailey each had nine.

Circleville connected on 27 of 65

shots from the field and converted 19 of 28 at the charity stripe.

Hillsboro shot 20 of 55 from the floor and netted 11 of 21 from the foul line.

The battle of the boards went to the Tigers with 46 rebounds while Hillsboro pulled down 25.

Truex, Graham and Greg Hoskins were the big board men for the Tigers while Lawrence Turner did the job for the Indians.

The Tigers got off to an erratic start as they committed 13 turnovers in the first half but settled down in the final two periods with only four misplays in the half.

Hillsboro turned the ball over 13 times in the first half and committed 10 errors in the final two frames.

"We were a little disappointed in our offense in the first half but finally got things moving in the last two periods," Circleville Coach John Lawhorn stated. "But our defense was great and kept us in the game until we could get our offense unlimbered," Lawhorn commented.

BSGU Grid Coach Under Team Fire

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—Bowling Green football Coach Don Nehlen says he doesn't know "what the problem is" with players who reportedly are considering asking for his resignation.

"The season has been over two weeks and I haven't heard anything," said the 36-year-old Nehlen.

Team members confirmed Friday a story in the student newspaper, the BG News, that said Nehlen might be given a resignation petition from them if a Sunday afternoon meeting with the coach doesn't go to their liking.

Logan Elm made it five in a row Friday defeating visiting Adena 79-57 in Scioto Valley Conference action.

And the Braves rolled to the win without their All-SVC player Tom Sykes who was benched by the flu bug.

"It wasn't as close as I thought it might be without Tom," coach Dave Little said after the tilt was over. "We got a lot of help inside from Marty Eveland and Stu Jones tonight."

Eveland and Jones accounted for 27 points and 31 rebounds between them. Jones picked 17 off the boards and connected on seven of ten shots from the field for 14 points. Eveland went up for 14 rebounds and scored 13 points.

While Jones and Eveland were taking up the slack inside, Tim Justice was burning up the hoops outside, canning 12 of 25 long range jumpers and driving layups and scoring both his attempts from the charity stripe for a total of 26 points.

Justice's performance led both teams. Rounding out the scoring for the Braves, Mike Holbrook and Steve Sargent had eight each, Jay Justice six and Rich Jones four.

As a team the Braves connected on 33 of 76 shots from the field for a 43 per cent average. At the foul line they made 13 of 19, a 68 per cent average. The Braves won the battle of the boards, 48 rebounds to 32 rebounds. They were charged with 24 personal fouls.

For Adena, Bill Barnes scored 15 points and Randy Hill 11. They were the only two in twin figures for the visitors. Adena Warriors were assessed 19 personal fouls. The game wasn't nearly as physical as the Braves' two previous wins against Unioto and Franklin Heights.

The Braves got off to a slow start and trailed 10-8 at the end of the first eight minutes of play. But they came back to build a 9-point bulge by halftime, 37-28. In the third quarter the Braves added five points to the margin for a 55-41 edge going into the final canto.

Just about midway through the fourth quarter they put the game on ice. A pair of buckets by Jay Justice made the score 63-46. The Adena Warriors then scored five points to pull within 12. Stu Jones got hot scoring eight points in the next two minutes for a 71-55 edge. The Warriors were scoreless from the field during the last four minutes of the game, their only points coming from the charity stripe.

The little Braves were impressive in winning the preliminary game Friday and boosting their record to three wins and two losses. Balanced scoring played the big role in the 56-28 win over the Adena reserves.

Circleville Tigers Beat Hillsboro, 73-51

LAYUP — Graham fights his way through for a bucket in the Circleville Tigers' 73-51 win over Hillsboro Friday in the CHS gym. Don Jewett of Hillsboro watches. The player in the number 24 jersey behind Jewett is Dave Truex who led both teams in scoring with 21 points. Graham finished the night with 18.

Using a defense that was stickier than a tar road on a hot summer day the Circleville Tigers rolled over Hillsboro 73-51 Friday night on the Red and Black floor to run their season record to 4-0 and gain their second win in South Central Ohio League competition.

With an offense that sputtered in the first half and couldn't seem to find the range, the Tigers relied on a strong defensive effort to hold the Indians in check.

The Tigers held a narrow 12-10 lead at the end of the first quarter and went to the locker room at halftime with a 30-19 lead.

But the offense of the Tigers began to smooth out in the third quarter and the lights began to flicker on the scoreboard.

With Dan Graham hitting from underneath the bucket, Dave Truex connecting from the corners, Greg Hoskins driving and Glen Gillespie converting from the charity stripe, the Tigers jumped out to a 47-33 margin at the conclusion of the period and were never in any serious trouble the rest of the way.

The Red and Black continued to move in the final period and put 26 more points in the winning ledger.

The Tigers used the foul line in the final period to put the game on ice with Truex, Gillespie, Robin Martin and Kris Kline connecting on 12 of 15 charity tosses.

Kline and Truex each added a pair of buckets with Graham, Greg Hoskins and Doug Radabaugh coming up with a basket apiece in the period to offset a scoring effort on the part of Don Jewett and Arnie Jewett for the Indians.

Tempers flared briefly under the basket midway through the final period and Greg Hoskins and Bill Housh of Hillsboro sat out the rest of the contest as a result of the altercation.

With the win over Hillsboro coming on the heels of a Circleville victory at Wilmington the Tigers are now in a good spot for a run at the SCOL crown.

The big test will come next week when the Tigers travel to Miami Trace in a crucial league battle.

Truex paced the Tiger offense with eight from the field and five from the free throw line for a total of 21 points for the night's work.

Graham came up with a fine scoring effort inside to put 18 more points in the book, Greg Hoskins added 13, Kline and Martin had six points apiece, Gillespie five and Radabaugh four to complete the scoring.

Don Jewett led the Indians with 10 markers while Housh and Kevin Bailey each had nine.

Circleville connected on 27 of 65

shots from the field and converted 19 of 28 at the charity stripe.

Hillsboro shot 20 of 55 from the floor and netted 11 of 21 from the foul line.

The battle of the boards went to the Tigers with 46 rebounds while Hillsboro pulled down 25.

Truex, Graham and Greg Hoskins were the big board men for the Tigers while Lawrence Turner did the job for the Indians.

The Tigers got off to an erratic start as they committed 13 turnovers in the first half but settled down in the final two periods with only four misplays in the half.

Hillsboro turned the ball over 13 times in the first half and committed 10 errors in the final two frames.

"We were a little disappointed in our offense in the first half but finally got things moving in the last two periods," Circleville Coach John Lawhorn stated. "But our defense was great and kept us in the game until we could get our offense unlimbered," Lawhorn commented.

Aces Edge Millersport In Mid State

The Amanda-Clearcreek Aces continued their affinity for close basketball games, beating host school Millersport by a scant 1-point margin, 56-55, Friday.

With a 2-1 record for the season, the Aces dropped their first game by a single point and won last week by two. A hustling defense in the first half and some key buckets by Bob Foster in the fourth period helped A-C to the victory.

In the first half Millersport had the ball 39 times and 19 times the Aces were able to force turnovers. But the defense had a let down in the second half and it was those key fourth-quarter basket by Foster that sparked the win.

Larry Stroup came off the bench in the third period, scored a quick bucket and pulled down some timely rebounds to aid the Aces.

Rex Riddle and Virgil Strickler paced the Aces in scoring with 18 and 16 points respectively.

Amanda-Clearcreek won the battle of the boards, 38-18. The next game for the Aces is Tuesday at home against Fairfield Union.

Zane Trace Pioneers rallied from a 9-point deficit to beat visiting Paint Valley, 55-52, in a Scioto Valley Conference game Friday.

The Pioneers were led by Barry DeLong, who scored 11 of his 25 points in the fourth quarter. DeLong also led his team in rebounding, pulling 14 off the boards.

The Pioneer reserves won the preliminary game, 41-22. Next Friday Zane Trace plays at Huntington.

Steelers can finally achieve that goal, a championship, mainly the American Conference Central Division crown. Pittsburgh has to beat Houston and the Bengals have to defeat Cleveland to make the Steeler dream come true.

Then there's Atlanta. The Falcons, in only their seventh NFL season, are within a victory of a title, too. They need some help, too. If Atlanta can knock off San Francisco on Sunday and St. Louis can upset the Los Angeles Rams, the Falcons will own the National Conference West crown.

And there's Green Bay, hardly a stranger to championships but a preseason pick this year to be a bystander to the NFC Central brawl between Minnesota and Detroit.

The Packers, at 8-4, hold a one-game lead over the Vikings and Lions. But, unlike the Steelers and Falcons, Green Bay needs no help to clinch its division. A victory over Minnesota will wrap it up. Even if the Packers and Lions finish tied for the lead at the end of the season, Green Bay would get the title by virtue of its two victories over Detroit.

In Saturday's other game, the Dallas Cowboys, needing a victory to lock up the NFC "wild card" berth, host the Washington Redskins.

Sunday's other games have Miami against the Giants in New York, Detroit at Buffalo, Chicago at Philadelphia, San Diego at Denver, Baltimore at Kansas City and New England at New Orleans. And on Monday night, the New York Jets face the Raiders in Oakland.

If the Steelers win, it'll not only all but assure them of a title but will pretty much assure the Oilers of a rather dubious honor—the worst record in the league. At 1-11 they're one game "ahead" of New England in the "race" for the first pick in next year's collegiate draft.

All eyes in Houston's Astrodome will be on Pittsburgh rookie running back Franco Harris, within reach of a spate of NFL records.

Cleveland is still in the AFC Central championship race but even a loss wouldn't be fatal, since they'd still have a shot at the conference wild card slot. But the Bengals must win to keep even those slim hopes alive.

The Falcons, 7-5, hold a halfgame edge over the 49ers and Rams, so victories in their final two games will automatically give them a title.

Miami, by winning, would not only knock the Giants out of playoff contention but would become the fifth team in NFL history to win 13 games in a season. And that, in turn, would put them within one victory of the first perfect season since the 1942 Chicago Bears cruised through an 11-game season without so much as a tie to blemish their record.

What it all comes down to is that, going into this next-to-last week of regular-season play, 15 of the league's 26 teams are still in the chase for Super Bowl VII. Washington, Miami and Oakland have wrapped up divisional championships, but for the remaining 12, it's still a scramble for the remaining five playoff berths.

Steelers And Falcons Near Pro Grid Titles

For 39 seasons the Pittsburgh Steelers have been sort of like the "nice guys" of the National Football League. Not that they've always finished last. But they've never finished first.

On Sunday—and with a little bit of help from Cincinnati on Saturday—the

Aces Edge Millersport In Mid State

The Amanda-Clearcreek Aces continued their affinity for close basketball games, beating host school Millersport by a scant 1-point margin, 56-55, Friday.

With a 2-1 record for the season, the Aces dropped their first game by a single point and won last week by two. A hustling defense in the first half and some key buckets by Bob Foster in the fourth period helped A-C to the victory.

In the first half Millersport had the ball 39 times and 19 times the Aces were able to force turnovers. But the defense had a let down in the second half and it was those key fourth-quarter basket by Foster that sparked the win.

Larry Stroup came off the bench in the third period, scored a quick bucket and pulled down some timely rebounds to aid the Aces.

Rex Riddle and Virgil Strickler paced the Aces in scoring with 18 and 16 points respectively.

Amanda-Clearcreek won the battle of the boards, 38-18. The next game for the Aces is Tuesday at home against Fairfield Union.

Zane Trace Wins, 55-52

Zane Trace Pioneers rallied from a 9-point deficit to beat visiting Paint Valley, 55-52, in a Scioto Valley Conference game Friday.

The Pioneers were led by Barry DeLong, who scored 11 of his 25 points in the fourth quarter. DeLong also led his team in rebounding, pulling 14 off the boards.

Also clicking for double figures for the winners was Doug Strawser with 12. For the Paint Valley Bearcats, Mick Shoemaker tallied 20 points.

"We were real happy just to win," Pioneer coach Russ Merrin reported. It was only the second game of the season for his team, following an opening loss to Logan Elm, while it was the fifth game for the Bearcats, who now have a 2-3 record.

The Pioneers got in early foul trouble with DeLong and Tim Whitten both having three personals in the first half.

Going to the locker room at halftime with a 26-25 lead, the Pioneers went the first six minutes of the third quarter scoring only two points. They were down 37-28 but scored the next six points to close the margin to 37-34 at the end of the third quarter.

They pulled ahead 41-40 early in the fourth period, opened that edge to a 50-44 and then hung on for the 55-52 victory. Zane Trace won the rebound battle, 41-29, and committed 19 turnovers compared to 14 for the bearcats.

The Pioneer reserves won the preliminary game, 41-22. Next Friday Zane Trace plays at Huntington.

CARROLL RICHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A Sunday to be sure you have the Golden Rule and establish harmony with those you are instead of yielding to a planetary urge to argue and dispute. Engaging in wholesome studies as well as attending services lessens the likelihood of accidents or problems with others now.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you listen to what friends have to suggest and also know your own aims, this happy combination will result in fine benefits. Show more regard for others and gain more in return. Take it easy in p.m.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Bigwigs and associates you confer with today do not seem to agree where ideas are concerned for your advancement, so listen to both then make own plans. Take no risks. Get to bed early so you get an early start in the morning.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You first have to finish chores facing you and then you can put through those fascinating ideas your mind is developing. Some new friend can help you get out of that convenient but dull rut you have fallen into.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Why worry about what cannot be helped? Get out with interesting and fascinating people and have wise talks about improving the future. One you admire has fine ideas. Try to listen carefully and put in action.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A family tie and an associate do not see eye to eye, so do not bring them together and all works out well. Others resent your forceful attitude, so tone it down and you benefit. Be your romantic self in p.m.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Try to follow more orthodox methods and principles instead of doing just the opposite and getting yourself into hot water. Attend the services of your choice. Join some good friend at favorite amusements later in the day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Why don't you forget practical matters now and get into amusements that will renew your vigor? You will be able to have new and creative ideas thereby, also. Stop getting so excited about something until you know all the facts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Forget all that arguing with kin and do something of a constructive nature that will help you get ahead faster. Don't forget to attend services, though. There is more power in prayer than you realize.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Stop worrying about something you can do nothing about and get busy with ideas you have for improving your lot in life. You have a clever friend who can show you how to become a happier person. Listen carefully.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Although financial affairs have you very worried, if you get together with progressive friends, they can give you good advice, ideas for improving your position. Become more interested in the social side of life. Be happier.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get into the personal aims you have and put off until tomorrow the business matters which could cause trouble right now. Avoid an influential person who is not in a good mood today. Enjoy your favorite hobby tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) There are fine ideas running through your mind so do something about them that is practical instead of being so unsure of yourself. You can expand along very orthodox lines. Listen to what mate has to suggest, also.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those delightful young people who must be taught early to correlate personal and financial aims, otherwise one or the other could suffer and the fine promise here would be lost. Give right spiritual training early so that the ideas become lofty and in tune with the giver of all that is good. Any profession entered into will then become successful.

Man Given Life Terms

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A Cleveland man who turned 21 Thursday was convicted Friday of first-degree murder in the slaying of two young ice cream vendors and sentenced to two consecutive life terms in prison.

Samson G. Webb, who had consistently denied being involved in the deaths, had two earlier trials end in mistrials, but the jury of eight men and four women reached their verdict this time after four hours of deliberation. Asked if he had any comment before sentencing, Webb replied: "No, sir, except the fact that I'm not guilty of those crimes that I have been charged with."

Daniel Isom, 15, and his 22-year-old brother William had been shot to death last summer while selling ice cream on Cleveland's East Side.

Police said they had arrested Webb after raiding his home on an anonymous tip and finding him hiding in a bedroom closet. Webb said that he had been hiding because he was AWOL from the U.S. Army.

OEA Hears Prayer Bid

CINCINNATI (AP)—Proponents of voluntary prayers in schools were expected to make a final plea today in the final morning session of the Ohio Education Association convention.

The resolution was scheduled by Gerald Martin and Elbert Cray, both delegates from the Garfield Heights, Ohio school system, near Cleveland. An earlier motion was refused by the Association of Classroom Teachers, action arm of the OEA.

The proposal calls for the OEA to urge the Ohio Legislature to consider an already proposed bill which calls for a constitutional amendment to consider voluntary prayer public schools.

In action Friday, the convention resolved to support "any bills opposing further diversion of public tax funds" to aid non-public schools.

Pentagon Papers Trial Scheduled

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The long-delayed Pentagon Papers trial will begin next Tuesday, says the trial judge, but the government will have to eliminate some 100 pages of evidence it planned to present.

U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne ruled Thursday the government could not use some pages of the massive Pentagon Papers study that the prosecution didn't tell the defense it was going to cite at the trial.

Byrne denied a defense request for time to prepare for new material the government has added to its case since the trial was halted by an appeal of a wiretap issue last August.

Police said Daugherty, 19, of Bedford, Ohio, told them he was robbed of his auto and $18, was beaten with brass knuckles, and was blindfolded and tied to a tree in nearby DeKalb County after an hour's drive Thursday night. Daugherty freed himself after 45 minutes and called police.

School Plan Pondered By Judge

CINCINNATI (AP)—A U.S. District Court desegregation plan for Detroit schools and 52 surrounding districts was back in the hands of its author today for more work following an appeals court decision that was hailed by the NAACP as the most important since the 1954 landmark decision.

The 6th U.S. District Court of Appeals affirmed findings of racial discrimination in Detroit area schools, but it ruled that the suburban districts involved in the case must have their day in court before the plan can be implemented.

At the same time, the appellate court vacated the lower court's order directing the state of Michigan to purchase 295 buses for use in transporting 40,000 pupils to achieve racial integration.

In a 3-0 decision, the court sent the controversial plan back to Judge Stephen J. Roth of U.S. District Court in Detroit. The panel agreed with Roth's finding that the Detroit city school system is segregated and that an effective desegregation plan must include suburban districts.

But it said Roth erred in not requiring that each of the 52 suburban districts be included in court proceedings during which the desegregation plan evolved. Each should be given the opportunity to be heard, the 80-page decision said.

It added, however, "It will not be necessary for the District Court to find discriminatory conduct on the part of each school district order to justify including them in the final plan."

State Farm Land May Be Sold

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio might sell its farm land at state institutions because agricultural work isn't considered very therapeutical anymore and the operations are uneconomical.

Max Brown, public relations director in the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, said the plans still are only tentative.

"But it's the general consensus that we're going to sell because the farm operations no longer are practical," he said.

Plans for the sale would be worked out by the Finance Department, he said, adding that the arrangements probably would need legislative approval.

Three departments, Mental Health, Corrections and the Youth Commission, own about 15,900 acres of land. Its value has been estimated at $30 million.

Some of the land involved is at the Marysville Reformatory for Women, 204 acres; Marion Corrections Institute, 925 acres; Tiffin State Hospital, 390 acres; Orient State Institution, 1,299 acres; Mount Vernon State Hospital, 186 acres; Southern Ohio Correctional Institution, 960 acres, and Mansfield Reformatory, 536 acres.

Curbside Psychiatry

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A curbside booth offering walkup psychiatric advice has been set up by a counseling service during the Christmas season.

"In the Christmas spirit, counseling 5c" read a sign reminiscent of the Peanuts comic strip. "The psychiatrist is in."

Since the booth opened this week, some 50 persons have dropped a nickel on the counter and spilled their problems to Dr. Benjamin Weininger, a spokesman said Thursday.

"Actually, we are doing this to dramatize the importance of low-cost mental health service in the community," said Vicki Michel. She is director of the Southern California Counseling Center, sponsor of the psychiatric service on La Cienega Boulevard.

He said the center handles 500 cases a week, but gets no public funding. "I've been listening to everything from broken love affairs to conflicts with parents," Weininger said. "Some people are surprised that their problems can be solved so quickly."

Fake Doctor Kills Self With Poison

ROUSES POINT, N.Y. (AP) — A man State Police tentatively identified as Uday V. Gupte of Euclid, Ohio, died Friday in the Border Patrol office in the nearby hamlet of Overton's Corners of an apparently self-inflicted overdose of poison or drugs.

Troopers at Plattsburgh said the man carried identifications with several different addresses and at least six aliases, including that of a Vijay Anend Koditwakku, who reportedly posed as a doctor at several Cleveland, Ohio, area hospitals over the past two years.

The man's last known place of employment was tentatively listed by troopers as Parma Community Hospital, city or town unknown.

The man had in his possession an Ohio driver's license and an Indian passport. The tentative address State Police were using for him Friday night was 101 E. 185th St., Euclid.

Police reports said the man died in the U.S. Customs Border Patrol office, in the presence of Border Patrol inspectors, while he was being questioned after being stopped while en route to Canada at the border crossing here.

Further details of his death remained under investigation early today, troopers said.

The exact cause of death, the man's real identity and residence remain under investigation today, troopers said. They stressed that no complete verification of who the man was has been made.

Fly Ash Now Viewed As Useful Material

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Pollution experts who recently concluded a convention here say fly ash is now viewed as an "engineering material" instead of a "solid waste."

Ralph E. Gilchrist of the Southwest Research Institute in San Antonio, Tex., says about 20 per cent of the utility industry's ashes were used beneficially in 1971. The ashes include fly ash from burning coal along with boiler slag and bottom ash.

Man Given Life Terms

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A Cleveland man who turned 21 Thursday was convicted Friday of first-degree murder in the slaying of two young ice cream vendors and sentenced to two consecutive life terms in prison.

Samson G. Webb, who had consistently denied being involved in the deaths, had two earlier trials end in mistrials, but the jury of eight men and four women reached their verdict this time after four hours of deliberation. Asked if he had any comment before sentencing, Webb replied: "No, sir, except the fact that I'm not guilty of those crimes that I have been charged with."

Daniel Isom, 15, and his 22-year-old brother William had been shot to death last summer while selling ice cream on Cleveland's East Side.

Police said they had arrested Webb after raiding his home on an anonymous tip and finding him hiding in a bedroom closet. Webb said that he had been hiding because he was AWOL from the U.S. Army.

OEA Hears Prayer Bid

CINCINNATI (AP)—Proponents of voluntary prayers in schools were expected to make a final plea today in the final morning session of the Ohio Education Association convention.

The resolution was scheduled by Gerald Martin and Elbert Crary, both delegates from the Garfield Heights, Ohio school system, near Cleveland. An earlier motion was refused by the Association of Classroom Teachers, action arm of the OEA.

The proposal calls for the OEA to urge the Ohio Legislature to consider an already proposed bill which calls for a constitutional amendment to consider voluntary prayer public schools.

In action Friday, the convention resolved to support "any bills opposing further diversion of public tax funds" to aid non-public schools.

Pentagon Papers Trial Scheduled

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The long-delayed Pentagon Papers trial will begin next Tuesday, says the trial judge, but the government will have to eliminate some 100 pages of evidence it planned to present.

U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne ruled Thursday the government could not use some pages of the massive Pentagon Papers study that the prosecution didn't tell the defense it was going to cite at the trial.

Byrne denied a defense request for time to prepare for new material the government has added to its case since the trial was halted by an appeal of a wiretap issue last August.

School Plan Pondered By Judge

CINCINNATI (AP)—A U.S. District Court desegregation plan for Detroit schools and 52 surrounding districts was back in the hands of its author today for more work following an appeals court decision that was hailed by the NAACP as the most important since the 1954 landmark decision.

The 6th U.S. District Court of Appeals affirmed findings of racial discrimination in Detroit area schools, but it ruled that the suburban districts involved in the case must have their day in court before the plan can be implemented.

At the same time, the appellate court vacated the lower court's order directing the state of Michigan to purchase 295 buses for use in transporting 40,000 pupils to achieve racial integration.

In a 3-0 decision, the court sent the controversial plan back to Judge Stephen J. Roth of U.S. District Court in Detroit. The panel agreed with Roth's finding that the Detroit city school system is segregated and that an effective desegregation plan must include suburban districts.

But it said Roth erred in not requiring that each of the 52 suburban districts be included in court proceedings during which the desegregation plan evolved. Each should be given the opportunity to be heard, the 80-page decision said.

It added, however, "It will not be necessary for the District Court to find discriminatory conduct on the part of each school district order to justify including them in the final plan."

State Farm Land May Be Sold

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio might sell its farm land at state institutions because agricultural work isn't considered very therapeutical anymore and the operations are uneconomical.

Max Brown, public relations director in the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, said the plans still are only tentative.

"But it's the general consensus that we're going to sell because the farm operations no longer are practical," he said.

Plans for the sale would be worked out by the Finance Department, he said, adding that the arrangements probably would need legislative approval.

Three departments, Mental Health, Corrections and the Youth Commission, own about 15,900 acres of land. Its value has been estimated at $30 million.

Some of the land involved is at the Marysville Reformatory for Women, 204 acres; Marion Corrections Institute, 925 acres; Tiffin State Hospital, 390 acres; Orient State Institution, 1,299 acres; Mount Vernon State Hospital, 186 acres; Southern Ohio Correctional Institution, 960 acres, and Mansfield Reformatory, 536 acres.

Curbside Psychiatry

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A curbside booth offering walkup psychiatric advice has been set up by a counseling service during the Christmas season.

"In the Christmas spirit, counseling 5c" read a sign reminiscent of the Peanuts comic strip. "The psychiatrist is in."

Since the booth opened this week, some 50 persons have dropped a nickel on the counter and spilled their problems to Dr. Benjamin Weininger, a spokesman said Thursday.

"Actually, we are doing this to dramatize the importance of low-cost mental health service in the community," said Vicki Michel. She is director of the Southern California Counseling Center, sponsor of the psychiatric service on La Cinega Boulevard.

He said the center handles 500 cases a week, but gets no public funding. "I've been listening to everything from broken love affairs to conflicts with parents," Weininger said. "Some people are surprised that their problems can be solved so quickly."

ROUSES POINT, N.Y. (AP) — A man State Police tentatively identified as Uday V. Gupte of Euclid, Ohio, died Friday in the Border Patrol office in the nearby hamlet of Overton's Corners of an apparently self-inflicted overdose of poison or drugs.

Troopers at Plattsburgh said the man carried identifications with several different addresses and at least six aliases, including that of a Vijay Anand Koditwakkur, who reportedly posed as a doctor at several Cleveland, Ohio, area hospitals over the past two years.

The man's last known place of employment was tentatively listed by troopers as Parma Community Hospital, city or town unknown.

The man had in his possession an Ohio driver's license and an Indian passport. The tentative address State Police were using for him Friday night was 101 E. 185th St., Euclid.

Police reports said the man died in the U.S. Customs Border Patrol office, in the presence of Border Patrol inspectors, while he was being questioned after being stopped while en route to Canada at the border crossing here.

Further details of his death remained under investigation early today, troopers said.

The exact cause of death, the man's real identity and residence remain under investigation today, troopers said. They stressed that no complete verification of who the man was has been made.

Fly Ash Now Viewed As Useful Material

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Pollution experts who recently concluded a convention here say fly ash is now viewed as an "engineering material" instead of a "solid waste." Ralph E. Gilchrist of the Southwest Research Institute in San Antonio, Tex., says about 20 per cent of the utility industry's ashes were used beneficially in 1971. The ashes include fly ash from burning coal along with boiler slag and bottom ash.

Other awards programs for Pickaway County Youth sponsored by the Circleville Elks Lodge include the annual scholarship contest in January, the student of the month award in January and February, the local scholarship program in which two youths will receive $400 each and the outstanding track star for the county.
